Guide created by Alejandra Dean, Assistant Digital Archivist, on August 7, 2020.

This guide details how to search the Folk arts & heritage collection, 1982-2016, in the Massachusetts Archives Digital Repository, accessible at digitalarchives.sec.state.ma.us. The Folk arts & heritage collection was transferred to the Massachusetts Archives from the Mass Cultural Council in 2016. For an expanded agency history of the Mass Cultural Council, please consult the Collection Guides on our website at <https://www.sec.state.ma.us/arc/arccol/colguides.htm>.

About the collection: In 1999, the Mass Cultural Council (MCC) established its Folk Arts & Heritage Program, the successor to its Folklife and Ethnic Arts Program (1987-1992). Its purpose “is to identify craftspeople, performers and cultural specialists, help sustain the practice of tradition where they live, and increase appreciation of their artistry within the community and beyond.” (http://massfolkarts.org/heritage_program.asp, accessed 2020-04-08). The MCC also provides direct support to individual artists through Artist Fellowships and Traditional Arts Apprenticeships.

Records date from 1982-2016 (bulk 1999-2016) and document the practice, occupational skills, and expressive traditions of individuals and community groups in Massachusetts based on “shared ethnicity, religious belief, occupational tradition, or sense of place” (http://massfolkarts.org/about_folk_art.asp, accessed 2020-04-08). The records in the series were created by Folk Arts & Heritage Program staff, interns, contracted folklorists, and photographers. The collection is physically arranged in five segments, each organized by folklorist or intern: (1) files of individual folklorists that document field visits, including field logs, transcripts of recorded interviews, fliers and brochures for events, release forms, and correspondence between folklorists and contacts (2) color slides and black and white negatives of field visits (3) audiocassette and Digital Audio Tape (DAT) recordings of interviews, events, and performances (4) born-digital records consisting of field logs, images, videos, and audio recordings of field visits (5) Artist Fellowships and Traditional Arts Apprenticeship files from 2001-2015.

Related series: Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities--Massachusetts folklife interview files, 1987-1988 (AF10/870X); Massachusetts folklife audiocassettes, 1987-1988 (AF10/871X).

Administrative notes: The Folk arts & heritage collection was processed by Alejandra Dean, Assistant Digital Archivist, with assistance from Malcolm Clark, Digital Intern, Meghan Jones, Digital Intern, and Chris Norton, Archives Volunteer. After consulting with MCC staff, Archives staff decided to integrate digitized field documentation and born-digital field documentation in the Digital Repository per artist or practitioner and then by field visit if the contact was visited multiple times. Digital folder titles, photograph titles, and record descriptions derive from creator-supplied terminology indicated in field logs when present. The Assistant Digital Archivist decided to use creator-supplied terminology to preserve how folklorists originally documented and interpreted the individuals and traditions in the series and to make clear the connections between field documentation of differing formats (for example, between a photograph log for an accompanying set of 35mm slides). All other descriptions were created by the project team. The project team surveyed all release forms in the series and placed restrictions on materials in accordance with information indicated on the forms. If a release form was not present with the materials, the project team assessed whether or not to place a restriction based on other information present in the files. Personally identifiable information was redacted from access copies of textual records.

Digital access notes: The records accessible in the Digital Repository include digitized, redacted copies of field logs and transcripts from segment (1), digitized copies of slides and negatives from segment (2), digitized copies of audiocassette recordings from segment (3), and born-digital audiovisual material from segment (4). Materials collected by MCC staff and folklorists (such as fliers, brochures, and ephemera), correspondence, DAT tape recordings, and documentation of Artist Fellowships and Traditional Arts Apprenticeships that did not coincide with field visits is not available in the Digital Repository. Folk Arts & Heritage Program records were digitized from June 2018 - February 2019 by the Massachusetts Archives. Originals for the entire series are located at the Massachusetts Archives.

Notes on restrictions: Personally Identifiable Information in field logs is redacted. Born-digital field logs are not currently available online and will be made available as they are redacted. A comprehensive folder list (physical and digital) of all individuals represented in the collection and their online access status is included at the end of this guide.

Staff at the Massachusetts Archives make every effort to review materials for privacy and copyright concerns before making records publicly accessible in the Digital Repository. To request the removal of online access for records in the Digital Repository that may infringe on an individual's privacy or intellectual property rights, please contact us by email at [archives\[at\]sec.state.ma.us](mailto:archives[at]sec.state.ma.us) and include: the reason for the removal request and sufficient information for Archives staff to identify and locate the record(s) in question. Upon receipt of an inquiry, staff will respond within 10 business days.

Materials have been indexed by artist name, date, field worker name, subject, location, format, and creator-supplied identification numbers. Creator supplied IDs use the following convention:

[field worker initials]-[two digit year]-[chronological sequence of visit that year]. For example, the identifier for 2007 documentation of vejigante artist Angel Sanchez Ortiz is KK-07-10, which indicates that field worker Kate Kruckemeyer conducted the field work and that this project is 10th chronologically for Kate Kruckemeyer in 2007. The following is a list of folklorists (both employed by the MCC and contractors), interns, and photographers represented in the collection:
