Dear Governor Patrick,

I am writing to request your help in proclaiming January 3rd 2013 as Battle of Princeton Day in your State.

The Battle of Princeton was fought on January 3rd 1777 between General George Washington leading the ragged Continental Army and the British Army in Princeton New Jersey. The battle was Washington's book-end victory to the "Ten Crucial Days" campaign; the first was at Trenton over the Hessians. This action was the turning point of the American Revolution and rekindled the flame of Liberty which was all but extinguished at this point of the war. The Veterans of this battle went on to be the founders of our country and to populate every state. I am sure their descendants would be pleased with this proclamation.

Please proclaim January 3rd 2013 as Battle of Princeton Day and give the Veterans of our earliest war the respect and honor they deserve!
