Summary Description: I arrived at Local Union 56 shortly before 9:00 a.m. and was greeted by Dan Kuhs. He invited me to return to the classroom where we had met before. Tim introduced himself - asked if I needed anything. Shortly after Dan and Dave Woodman came in, followed by Paul Butt. We all chatted informally until Jack Sullivan arrived. Then Dan and Dave left us to do the interview.

Both Jack and Paul are recently retired - and were obviously good friends. Much of the interview was a conversation between the two of them, remembering fellow co-workers, various jobs, dangerous situations and how things had changed since they had first become pile drivers. Jack seemed particularly at ease - making good eye contact. He was dressed in jeans, a Boston Celtics tee-shirt and tevas. Paul Butt also wore jeans - the two enjoyed each others company. In fact, when I asked them what they missed about working they said it was the people, definitely not the work. "I miss the guys."

When I left, Dan asked if they could have a copy of the audio recording. I'd given them compact discs of the interview I'd done with Dan and Dave.
